

Why are Tigers Becoming Extinct?

Tigers are the biggest cat but the most endangered. They live in the rainforest and eat meat. So why are they becoming extinct?

Unfortunately, some get killed for their body parts for medicine and bone in China so that's why they are becoming extinct.

Also tigers are losing their habitats so they have to walk miles. Some cubs get taken away at age 2-3 and get taken away to a temple in Thailand.

So tigers are now mainly seen in zoos, museums and rides.